

No state should be prohibited from enforcing a law solely because it is more restrictive than a parallel Federal program. Federal programs often do not address local/regional needs.